GIRL SCOUTS OF HAWAI'I INSPIRES GIRLS TO PURSUE STEM EDUCATION WITH ANNUAL STEM FEST EVENT

HONOLULU (Nov. 1, 2019) – Girl Scouts of Hawai'i is encouraging young girls to immerse themselves in the world of science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) by introducing them to female industry professionals and exposing them to new careers at Girl Scouts' annual STEM Fest event on Saturday, November 2, 2019 from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

"STEM Fest is a fantastic opportunity for Girl Scouts to be inspired by female leaders in their STEM fields while participating in a variety of interactive and hands-on activities," said Shari Chang, CEO of Girl Scouts of Hawai'i. "We're excited to once again hold this annual Girl Scout tradition that equips girls with the tools, real-world insight and positive mentorship needed to pursue their goals."

We thank Pearl Harbor Aviation for allowing us to hold our event at their venue. STEM Fest will host approximately 500 Girl Scouts participating in interactive activities with more than 200 STEM professionals.

During STEM Fest, Girl Scouts of all ages will participate in engaging, hands-on activities with female pioneers in their respective STEM fields. From chemists to engineers, surgeons to voyagers, these prominent leaders will work closely with the girls while inspiring them to pursue their passions and begin preparing for their future.
